8. Attainment of Interface Certification

8.1 Upon attainment of SAP interface certification of a specific Interface Software, Vendor may:

- (a) utilize the fact that interface certification of this specific Interface Software and release has been granted as part of its product and market announcements;
- (b) offer and make commercially available Interface Software for use in the SAP environment; and
- (c) use the appropriate SAP tagline for its marketing materials which refer strictly to the certified Interface Software and release and its use with the Third-Party Software Product in conjunction with the Software according to the trademark license terms of Appendix B hereto.

8.2 Vendor agrees to obtain SAP's prior written consent of all statements regarding SAP itself and its products and services, provided that Vendor may repeat its use of a statement after such statement has been initially approved by SAP. However, if the content of such an approved statement remains no longer true because of major changes, SAP may withdraw its approval.

8.3 Attainment of interface certification constitutes Vendor's agreement that SAP may use Vendor's name and address relating to the specific Third-Party Software Product and Interface Software for which interface certification has been attained in order to list a reference for SAP Licensees on SAP's related homepage. Vendor may revoke SAP's right to use Vendor's data upon thirty (30) days prior written notice.

9. After Successful Interface Certification

Vendor may apply for SAP partnership online within the SAP Partner Value Net after successful interface certification. The related commitments associated with a particular partnership category are explained in the partner area on SAP's homepage.

10. Interface Re-Certification

10.1 SAP Change of SAP Interface Release

SAP will use reasonable efforts to announce a release change to the Software and the SAP Interface within a reasonable period of time upon release. By release date, SAP will endeavor to make relevant Documentation on release changes available to Vendor.
